WASHINGTON, D. C., June 1.—Wool is now scarce, and a positive shortage of this fibre will probably exist within two years. This prediction has created alarm in the American textile trade, and caused scientists in all parts of the world to renew their investigations of the vegetable and mineral kingdoms for a substitute.

Burned in Uniforms

Every time a man in the trenches discards his woolen uniform, it is burned and a new one supplied him. This is a tremendous tax on the production of wool—a fibre that was none too plentiful when the war started.

Fabrics of all kinds have been more or less affected by the war. The large flax fields of Belgium were wiped out just as the demand for linen in hospital supplies became enormous. Only cotton has survived the war strain with anything like an increase, and in this country even its production has been curtailed by the introduction of diversified crops in the south.

Goat's hair and camel's hair have already helped us through a couple of winters and provide a possible answer to the problem. Camels and goats are not so numerous as sheep, however, so that the real answer must come from the vegetable kingdom. Nettles, pine needles, seaweed and the leaves and stalks of various plants are being experimented with by European scientists in the hope of discovering a new fabric that will have the warmth, the impenetrability to dampness and the close, soft weave of wool.

Cotton Has Fussy Thread

At present there are seven textile fibres on the American retail market, including cotton, wool, linen, silk, ramie, jute and artificial silk. Cotton, the cheapest of these, has short fibres with a peculiar spiral twist which are adapted to spinning, but produce a fuzzy thread preventing luster in the cloth. This disadvantage is in part overcome by the mercerizing process introduced about a decade ago, which imparts to cotton cloth a luster seen in some inferior grades of silk.

Silk is the most valuable of fabrics, owing to the length of its fibre, often over a hundred yards. While the mulberry tree upon which the silk worm lives, may be grown successfully in the United States, the amount of hand labor required in raising and handling the cocoon precludes the probability of our ever developing a raw product industry here. In removing the long silk fibre from the cocoon much short fibre is also detached which is made up into a fabric known as "spun silk," having a somewhat fuzzy thread and without the usual silky luster. It is for the most part used in backs of satins, satiny silks and velvets, being as serviceable as the long fibre but not so beautiful.

Pongee Wild Silk
Pongee, imported in large quantities from China by American textile manufacturers, is wild silk, obtained from uncultivated worms that feed on oaks and other common trees. This silk is darker in color and of a gummy substance noticeable in the cloth. The original pongee is always distinguishable by its unique odor, inherited from the

Captain John G. Moore Is Stricken at Viroqua While on Automobile Trip

WAS ONE OF FAMOUS MASTERS

He "Ran the River" in the Palmy Days of Logging and Steamboats; Master of Yukon Packet

A stroke of apoplexy, sustained while away from home on an automobile trip, caused the death of Captain John G. Moore, president of the Cargill Coal company, at a Viroqua hotel at 6 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Moore, and John D. Moore, his son, with the latter's wife, were at the captain's bedside when the end came.

Stricken Last Night

Captain Moore sustained two strokes previous to his death. The first came at 9:30 last night, shortly after he had retired. His family in La Crosse was immediately notified, and they made a hurried automobile trip to Viroqua. They arrived at 3 o'clock. At 5 o'clock Captain Moore was visited by another stroke. He did not regain consciousness.

Captain Moore left La Crosse at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, apparently in his usual good health and spirits. He made the trip to Viroqua with F. A. Chase, a real estate dealer of the city. He ate a hearty meal at the hotel before retiring.

The stroke last night was the third to visit Captain Moore in three years. A slight stroke caused him some trouble three years ago, and again last October he was stricken. He was unconscious for some weeks after the visitation last fall, but had apparently recovered. For some months he had been back at his desk in the coal company's office.

Famous River Captain
With the death of Captain Moore there passes one of the few remaining of the generation of river-masters once famous on the upper Mississippi river. Captain Moore "ran the river" from his youth, and was one of the best known of all the pilots here.

ABORTIVE MEDICINE

"Phantom Witness" Says Orpet Again Said He Had to Get Rid of One Girl

COURT ROOM, WAUKEGAN, Ill., June 1.—Joseph Hartman, "phantom witness" in the trial of Will Orpet for Marian Lambert's murder, has confessed, attorneys said today, that he gave Orpet an abortive medicine on September 19, when the Wisconsin university student said he "had a girl in a bad fix."

Hartman's testimony will be discredited by the defense. In the detailed confession, Hartman is said to have made, it was stated that again, on January 30 last, Orpet called Hartman by telephone and offered him $25 to take a drug to Marian Lambert and tell her "it was the medicine Orpet fixed for her." The medicine was a light yellow liquid in a small bottle, Hartman said.

"Orpet told me he had two girls on his hands and had to get rid of one of them," Hartman's confession is reported to have stated.

Orpet's trial was in its third week today, with the jury box still lacking four permanent jurors. The tenth panel of veniremen was exhausted shortly before noon and court recessed for lunch, while ten deputy sheriffs were sent to Libertyville and Deerfield to gather a panel of fifty. There were still ten jurors in the box, eight permanently accepted and two tentatively.

NEW YORK, June 1.—The first conference between the board of nineteen railway managers and representatives of the trainmen demanding more pay was held here today.

No decision will be reached at the New York conference. Each side will make proposals and counter proposals until the contrary has simmered down to what appears a compromise basis. Then both sides will withdraw for consultation among themselves.

Representatives of the trainmen entered the conference with authority to discuss only their demands and without power to discuss arbitration.

CALLS PROSECUTOR COURTEOUS

The Arch-Poisoner Calmly Hears Sentence Which Condemns Him to the Electric Chair

*****
OSSINING, N. Y., June 1.—Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, arch-poisoner and confessed murderer of John Peck of Grand Rapids, virtually passed from the land of the living this afternoon. He entered the death-house at Sing Sing and became Prisoner No. 67821. There are eighteen other men in the death-house awaiting execution, and Waite expressed regret that he was not going with two of them who are to die tomorrow.

After making one of the most remarkable speeches ever heard in a New York court upon being sentenced to die the week of July 10, earlier in the day, Waite entered the death-house smiling, and as cheerful as ever.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Dr. Arthur Warren Waite was today sentenced to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing sometime during the week beginning July 10.

Before the confessed murderer of John E. Peck, Grand Rapids, Mich., millionaire, was sentenced he thanked the court for the manner in which his trial was conducted.

"I am willing to give my life in partial payment for the wrongs I have done others," Waite said, in a speech to the court.

"I only regret that I have nothing more than a life to give them. My soul will go on and on trying to make reparation for the wrongs I have done."

Dr. Waite was calm and displayed no emotion whatever when the sentence of death was pronounced. The arch-poisoner who confessed to two murders, an attempt at a third and to petty crimes throughout his life stood between two deputies with a third behind him when Justice Shearn pronounced the words that sent him to the Sing Sing death house.

When asked if he had anything to say as to why sentence should not be passed, he replied clearly: "I have not." He then asked that he be permitted to say a few words. The request was granted, and in a steady voice, Waite began his speech.

"I wish to thank the court," he began, "for the fair and expeditious manner in which my trial was conducted. I thank Mr. Brothers (the assistant district attorney who prosecuted the case) for the conscientious way in which he did his duty toward the people and the justice he has done me."

"I also thank my counsel, Mr. Deuel, for his efforts. He is sincere in the belief that I am insane, and did all he could."

"To ask forgiveness for those whom I have wronged would be almost impossible. But I am willing to give up my life in partial payment for the hurt I have done."

Brother in Court
Percy Peck, son of the old man Waite murdered in hopes of gaining the Peck millions, was in court, as was Frank Waite, brother of the condemned man. They were the only members of either family who heard the death sentence passed. Mrs. Margaret Horton, Waite's "studio companion," was absent.

After being sentenced, a handcuff was snapped over Waite's wrist. A deputy held the other end of the steel "nippers." Waite was then led away to be taken by automobile to Grand Central station, where the 11:07 train was taken for Ossining.

Consider Appeal
The matter of an appeal in Waite's case is under way. It was announced after the conviction that one would be taken, but Waite's continued insistence that he wants to die in the electric chair to make partial atonement for his crimes may result in a decision not to appeal. An appeal would delay the execution several months.

DOUBLE SUICIDE PACT
SAYS SUSPECTED YOUTH

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 1.—A graphic story of a suicide pact in which two lovers agreed to die together, and in which a belt buckle saved the life of one, was told to the Providence police today by James O'Brien, 21, who is held for the murder of Beatrice Walter, 19.

The Walter girl was found dead early today with a bullet wound in her breast, on a lonely road near Field's Point. O'Brien, with whom she left for a walk last evening, reported her death to her father and to the police.

According to O'Brien's story he and the girl were sweethearts and were walking together all during the evening. He had a loaded revolver with him. When Beatrice learned this she suggested that it would be nice if they could die together.

O'Brien declared he agreed and allowed her to go first, whereupon she turned the revolver upon herself and fired. As she sank dead at his feet he declared he attempted to end his own life but the bullet struck his belt buckle and was deflected.

The police scout the suicide theory absolutely and will charge him with murder when he is arraigned tomorrow.

Bull Moose Leader Tells Hill's Progressives Will Support Right G. O. P. Candidate

National Defense Big Issue and Rival Leaders Congratulate Each Other on the Fact

BY H. L. RENNICK

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
CHICAGO, June 1.—George W. Perkins brought the olive branch to the G. O. P. again today. The bull moose chieftain, after greeting Chairman Hill of the republican national committee, at the Blackstone, announced flatly that the progressives still stand on the statement they outlined in January, indicating they will support any candidate—not necessarily Roosevelt—who stands for progressive principles.

"I see in the papers and I heard on the train while en route here that a lot of bitter feeling has been worked up between the camps of the different candidates," Perkins said. "This is unfortunate. As far as the progressives are concerned, we will approach the conventions in the spirit we indicated in our January statement."

Alludes to Carranza Allegation
"This is pre-eminently the time when the conventions should be for Americans first."

"I read in the papers that Carranza in his note, delivered at Washington yesterday, had accused the Wilson administration of duplicity and of misleading the Mexican government. It occurs to me that this was the first time that any foreign power had dared accuse Uncle Sam of treachery."

"Our prime object should be, with all possible speed and certainty, to stop this sort of a thing and restore our good name."

Greets Hill
As Perkins entered the Blackstone he shook hands with Chairman Hill of the republican committee; Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, one of the old guard, and several other republicans.

They chatted informally and laughingly expressed hopes of getting together. "Thanks for your statement regarding the republican platform the other day," Perkins said to Hill.

In this statement Hill had announced the republicans were for America and preparedness and that this was the big issue.

Hill told interviewers today that he believed the progressives and republicans would get together.

Hill branded as absolutely false a report that the national committee could get together today on a compromise candidate.

Under present plans, the progressive convention will run its sessions practically parallel to the republican program. Preliminary work is to be

GREEK PONTIFF
THINKS AMERICA
WILL BRING PEACE

Archbishop Germanos in La Crosse Has Only Praise for Freedom of the United States

IS SECOND PRELATE OF CHURCH

His Headquarters Are at Baalbec, the Ancient Assyrian City of the Sun

"America will lead the fighting nations of Europe out of the chaos in which the war has flung them. I believe that this country is the ordained medium through which peace throughout the entire world will be established. America is the greatest nation on the face of the earth. Its government—the government of the United States—is the most equitable I have seen. Your laws are fair laws and your country the haven of the downtrodden European and Asiatic in comparison with other lands. I can see nothing but good here."

These are the expressions of Archbishop Germanos, pontiff of the Greek Orthodox Catholic church, diocese of Baalbec, Syria, who leaves La Crosse tonight. Bishop Germanos is on a five-year tour of the United States and Canada in the interest of an agricultural school in the city of Baalbec, for which he has pledged himself to gather funds.

Second Prelate of Church
The archbishop is the second prelate of the Orthodox church, and the head of the Greek church in Syria. He is subordinate only to the patriarch, whose position is similar to that of the pope of the Roman Catholic church. Baalbec, the seat of his archbishop, is a city famous for centuries. It contains the ruins of the famous Assyrian temple of the sun. The city was called by the Greeks Heliopolis, or the City of the Sun.

Archbishop Germanos in an interview with The TRIBUNE today, pointed out the needs of his native land. He said that education of his people in agricultural pursuits was the most urgent, and that he had promised to return to Baalbec with capital with which to build the largest school in Syria. He has been visiting the La Crosse Syrians, and will go from here to Chicago, where he expects to spend several months. He praised the city and his entertainment here. Archbishop Germanos has been the guest of Samuel Markos, 520 South Third street.

The archbishop is of a distinct oriental type, of a massive figure with a great beard and long black hair. He was educated in the college of Beirut, near the cities of Baalbec, the ancient Heliopolis, and Damascus, on the northern edge of the Holy Land.

Won't Discuss Moslem Rule
Archbishop Germanos speaks little English. He has been in the United States less than two years, although he has made a study of this government with a view toward bettering his own people. They are ever in his heart. He speaks of them tenderly, although he refused to talk upon the treatment accorded the Greek Christians by Turkey, of which Syria is a province. He refused to speak of Turkish politics, rather telling of the efforts of the Orthodox church and its growth in Syria.

"In the area of Turkey in which Syria is situated," he said, "the Orthodox church is gaining rapidly over Mohammedanism. It is now almost the universal faith of my country, although the fight to gain the foothold which will finally lead to complete establishment of the Christian church, was a hard one."

"Although I have been here since before the outbreak of the war, I know that the people of Syria are suffering from it. Peace must come soon, and I am daily praying that through your president, the United States will bring about that peace. The heart of President Wilson is great. He is a good man, and his efforts to maintain peace in his own country have been the greatest endeavors a man could hope to make."

G. O. P. and Progressives Apparently Combining Against Candidacy of Justice

PENROSE HOLDS ATTENTION

Pennsylvanian Believed to Hold Hand Which Would Put In Teddy or Create Free-for-All

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
CHICAGO, June 1.—The campaign of Frank Hitchcock for Justice Charles Hughes appeared today to have united the anti-Hughes elements in the standard republican ranks with the Roosevelt republicans in a concerted attack on Hughes with a possible agreement on Roosevelt in the offing.

Around candidates' row at the hotels today there was every indication that a combine against Hughes is under way. The situation, however, was muddled a bit by the arrival today of William Barnes, Jr., of New York, foe of the colonel.

Penrose Watched

The arrival here of Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania was anxiously awaited. There was an under-current of feeling that Penrose, even more than Barnes, holds the situation in his hands. If he jumps to Roosevelt, as it has been rumored he would, the battle is over, politicians say; if he fights against the colonel, then it is a free-for-all.

There was a pronounced feeling today that nothing would heal the breach between Roosevelt and the old guard more quickly than Hitchcock's efforts for Hughes. The former postmaster general was accused by republicans today of "trying to capitalize his card catalogue."

Hitchcock has a complete card index of southern voters and delegates, it was stated.

A letter purporting to have been written by Justice Hughes, May 20, 1915, in which the justice declined to be a candidate was sprung by

Berlin Comments Caustically on Absence of "Great Russian Army" From Verdun

BERLIN, June 1.—French troops have captured 400 yards of German first line trenches by a counter attack southeast of Dead Man's hill, the war office announced this afternoon.

On the east bank of the Meuse violent artillery duels continued last night. East of Oberthul, in Alsace, German patrol detachments penetrated French positions on a front of 350 yards to a depth of 300 yards, capturing some prisoners and booty.

BERLIN, June 1.—The French are preparing to surrender Hill 304, last of the strongly fortified heights remaining in their possession northwest of Verdun. Several French positions on the summit, torn by the pounding fire of German guns, already have been evacuated. The next general assault on the position will probably bring it into the hands of the Germans.

From Haucourt eastward to the Meuse, the German front is pressing steadily southward in daily nibbles at the French line. The French are offering desperately tenacious resistance, but are steadily falling back upon the Charny line. The most lively French counter-attacks, delivered at heavy sacrifices in men, have resulted in only temporary successes, the Germans pressing on after each fresh check.

The French line has been stripped of reserves brought up for the defense of Verdun. Recent concentrations of troops behind the Anglo-French front indicate that the British are preparing to take over another stretch of French front, releasing French troops for service at Verdun.

INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION SHORT

Emergency Board Appealed to in Effort to Permit Continuance of Its Activities

MADISON, Wis., June 1.—(Special.)—That the Philipp administration's "economy and efficiency" end of its so-called "business administration" has already resulted in the hampering of the necessary activities of several state institutions was indicated today when the State Board of Control appealed to the Emergency board for additional appropriations of $30,900 to tide over state schools and hospitals until June 30, the end of the state's fiscal year.

At the same time the Industrial Commission asked for an additional $1,000, pointing out that cuts in that office's appropriation would result in a deficit by the end of June.

Wanted Funds Reduced
During the last session of the legislature former Governor James O. Davidson, who had been named by Governor E. L. Philipp as president of the Board of Control, appeared before an assembly committee and urged a reduction in the appropriation for the body headed by himself.

His remarks indicated his belief that there had been extravagance in the administration of the affairs of the board and he assured the assemblyman that the board could get along with much less money. The assembly, and later the senate, took him at his word and shaved the amount to suit Governor Philipp's appointee.

Played "Safety First!"

The Emergency board, to whom the Board of Control has now appealed for money with which to "skim" through the year in a body consisting of Governor Philipp, Secretary of State John S. Donald and State Treasurer Henry Johnson. It was created during the last hours of the legislature when there came to the Philipp people the fear that in their frantic efforts to "cut expense" they had probably gone too far. The board has the power to appropriate what it deems necessary in the way of additional finances for various departments of state government.

Where Money's Needed

The institutions which the Board of Control admits must have more money to pull through and the amounts requested are as follows: Industrial School for Boys at Waukesha, $4,000; State School for the Blind at Janesville, $5,900; Home for Feeble Minded at Chippewa Falls, $9,000; Reformatory for Boys at Green Bay, $10,000; Women's Reformatory at Tycheetah, $1,000.

DELEGATION FROM ALABAMA POPULAR
WITH ALL BOOMERS

CHICAGO, June 1.—Presidential boomers hovered about the Alabama G. O. P. delegation today like flies over a plate of syrup.

All a man with a southern accent who happened to be in Chicago today had to do was say he was from Alabama and the whole candidates' row at the Congress was on his heels with information, promises of brilliant futures and fat cigars.

So far as could be learned, the Alabama delegation is still on the fence despite claims by Hughes posters that this state would help the justice to the presidency.

Alabama is that first on the roll call, with the finest opportunity in the world to start something.

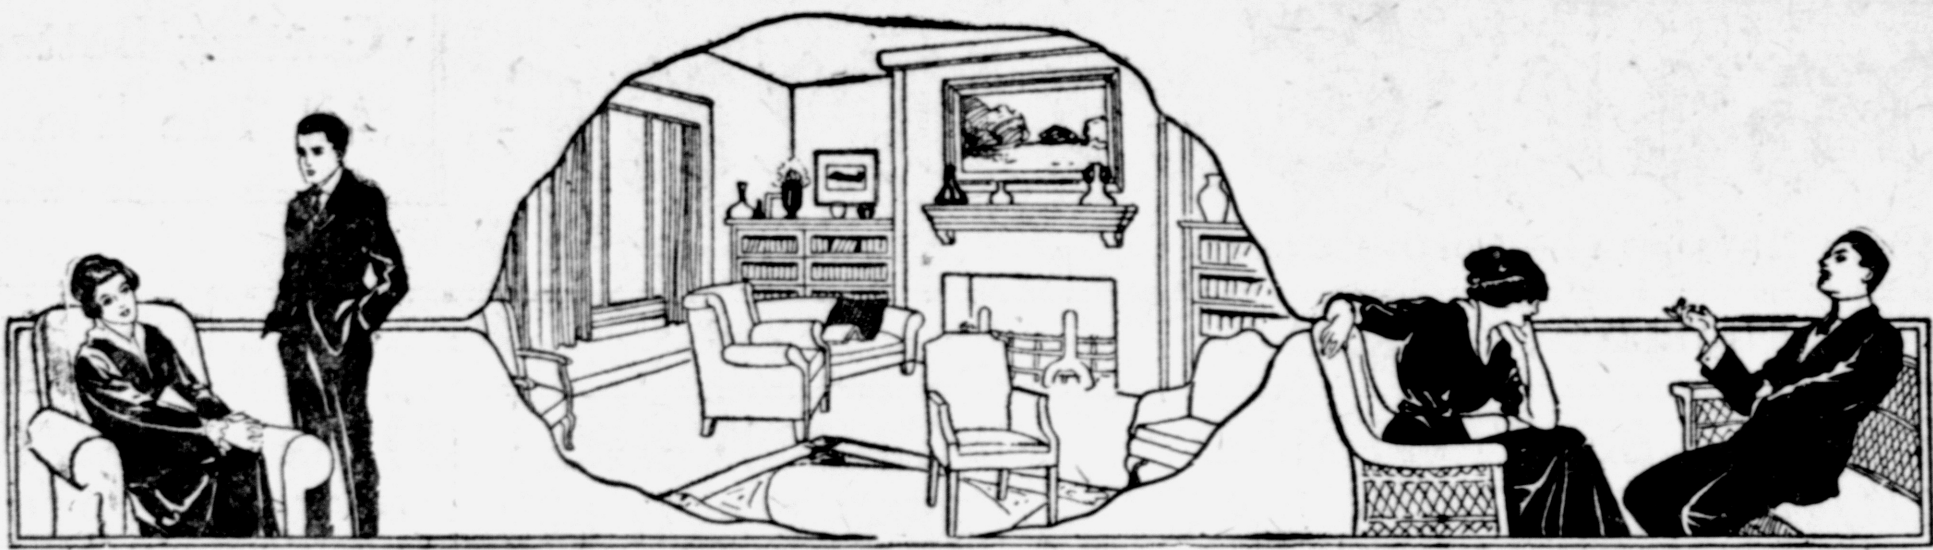

O. D. Street, who is to succeed P. D. Barker as national committeeman from Alabama, today denied the delegation would yield to New York on the first ballot, in order that Justice Hughes' name might be first put before the convention.

Colonel Barker said he thought "General Hitchcock must be mistaken in his claim that Alabama would yield to Hughes."

"I haven't heard much Hughes sentiment in my state, the delegation is for Sherman, Weeks, Root, Burton or Fairbanks. Roosevelt may have one vote."

Colonel Barker is 82 years old and this is his ninth national convention as a delegate. His wife, who is 35, said he promised her not to go to any more conventions.

FAMILY HORSE LOST IN RUSHFORD FIRE

Animal Is Imprisoned in Barn of Lewis Erickson When Structure Burns to the Ground

Lewis Knudson, Olaus Olson, T. E. Laugen and One Other Aid in Memorial Day Event

RUSHFORD, Minn., June 1.—(Special.)—Lewis Erickson, who leases the Stegansjord farm near Bratsberg, suffered a severe loss last week when a large barn on the place was struck by lightning and burned to the ground with all its contents. The structure itself was insured. The family driving horse had just happened to have been put in the barn that night, for the first time in a number of days, having before been left in the pasture all night. This animal, together with two calves, an automobile, a hay-loader, hay-rake, gang-plow, five tons of fine hay and a quantity of oats were all destroyed by the flames. The horse had got to the door of the barn, in response to a call from Mrs. Erickson, but slipped and fell and was burned before aid could reach it. Contractor Akre, of this city, will rebuild the barn immediately.

Memorial day sermon, delivered Sunday morning by Rev. Rockne, of the Lutheran church, was heard by a very large audience. In a very forcible manner, Rev. Rockne brought before his hearers the fact that, as the old veterans of the Civil war fought the battles which helped to gain for us the freedom from slavery which we now enjoy, so must we also wage battle upon the forces of evil and with our strength renewed from the Great Commander continue the fight, not call it done when a few enemies are routed. But four of our "Boys in Blue" are now left to assist in the services held this year, the ranks having been depleted until but Lewis Knudson, Olaus Olson and T. E. Laugen remain in the city itself, with one old gentleman from the nearby country remaining. At the Sunday morning services, a fine selection appropriate to the occasion was rendered by the Lutheran choir, under the able direction of Miss Hilma Wright of this city.

Rev. J. C. Bantly of the Rushford Presbyterian church, preached the Baccalaureate sermon for the class of 1916 last Sunday evening, at the Rushford opera house. A splendid audience greeted the speaker and thoroughly enjoyed the address. Taking for his text the words "Go Forth in the Strength of the Lord," Rev. Bantly drew from them many messages of inspiration.

Local and Personal. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nicholas, former residents of this city and now of Gordon, Wis., arrived here in their car last Saturday evening, pleasantly surprising their many friends. The start from the Wisconsin town was made on the preceding Thursday, a stop being made in Minneapolis on the way to Rushford. After a short visit here, they will go on to Boone, Iowa, for a short stay with Mr. Nicholas' parents and also his brother and his family. Their oldest son, Willard, is staying with his grandparents in the Iowa town.

Rev. J. C. Bantly preached the Baccalaureate sermon for the class of Houston graduates last Sunday evening, addressing a class of seven.

Ralph Hammond, who attends school at Fairbault, arrived home last Saturday to spend the summer vacation with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Gullikson, of this city. Miss Belle McKay having finished her school duties of the year at Northfield, in this state, arrived home last Saturday.

Mrs. Lee of Brooklyn, has gone up to Fertile, Minn., for a visit to her father, who is in feeble health.

HILL TRAINED SON TO FIT HIM FOR MONEY WORLD

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 1.—Louis W. Hill, who ostensibly assumed full control of the James J. Hill fortunes, estimated at perhaps $300,000,000, following the rail magnate's death is of a temperamental disposition. He is, however, of a practical turn of mind, his work in art being encouraged by his father to better temper him for the big finance to which he was destined. Louis Hill has gained some fame locally as an artist. His work is chiefly in landscape work in oils.

After Louis was graduated from Yale, his father put him in a pair of overalls and started him on the bottom round of the ladder, as a day laborer, to learn the railroad business. Louis went through all the departments working without preference until 1912, when James J. Hill retired and announced Louis Hill had succeeded him. The elder Hill's influence continued to be felt until his death, however. Although Louis is the second son, it appeared the empire builder had chosen him for his successor.

The deceased empire builder, although his mind was of the steel trap practical turn, still found some time for art, which he was taught by his son Louis to love. One of the Corot series in the Hill gallery is said to have cost $50,000. Hill's artistic leanings were toward the French artists.

If a man has enough money to carry him through he can get along without brains.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat which clogs Kidneys, then the Back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of madder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

LONDON, June 1.—Lord Kitchener, head of the British war office, was made the target for the harshest criticism heard in commons since the beginning of the war yesterday when Colonel Winston Churchill, former first lord of the admiralty, arose to discuss a motion to reduce Kitchener's salary.

SCREEN ECONOMY

Realize first of all that the wooden frames cost several times as much as the wire cloth that goes in them. Yet, the WORTH of the entire screen is absolutely dependent upon the life and durability of the wire cloth. G. & B. PEARL entirely does away with painting and repairs and replacements. It is the longest wearing, best looking, most satisfactory all-around wire cloth that ever went into a door or window or porch.

Look for the Two Copper Wires in the selvage and a Round Tag bearing the name Gilbert & Bennett on each roll.

 A RAILWAY DREADNAUGHT

One of the newest inventions for national defense is a railway dreadnaught which is nothing more than a heavy steel car constructed that it can be firmly fixed upon a concrete foundation and serve as a mount for guns. Congressman Capstick of New Jersey stands sponsor for the new invention to the extent of asking congress to appropriate $10,000,000 to provide for a supply of these dreadnaughts as a means of defense adaptable to any part of the country. They have the advantage of being readily transportable to wherever they may be needed. One of these cars can accommodate either 14 or 16 inch guns, and the demonstrations given incline many army officials to regard them favorably. It is claimed that under modern methods of warfare the permanent fort is no longer a practical defense.

Some men are about as important as a joke without a point.

BE ADVISED BY THE MUNICIPAL EXPERTS

The subject of enlightened municipal government is one that is occupying much attention, and so far as the machinery and agencies of government are concerned, nowhere is there more room for improvement than in La Crosse. Out of certain besetting and ingrowing local annoyances has come discussion of charter improvement, with the result that the board of trade and the city authorities are looking into the matter.

We have long felt the need of an improved form of city government for La Crosse, but we have at no time felt that its people were sufficiently awake to its evils and informed on the lines of improvement to support the necessary change. We doubt if they are now in the frame of mind essential to radical means of improvement, much as those who have given thought to the subject would welcome other ways and means of running our city business.

In La Crosse the municipal reformers for the most part have turned their attention to the idea of adopting part or all of the Wisconsin general charter act, a measure that in some things improves upon our present city charter, but that in most essentials is years behind the times. To save original elaboration upon this subject we refer city officials and members of the board of trade particularly, and all in general who are interested, to the following from "The Survey", some up-to-date comment upon "A New Model for City Charters":

The skeptics who still see only the failures of American municipal government, as if there had been no progress since the dark ages of two decades ago when graft and corruption and inefficiency were most prevalent, will find food for thought in the fact that the "model city charter" then suggested has so far been paralleled by real charters in actual use that a new model has become necessary.

Shortly after the National Municipal league was founded, twenty-one years ago, it organized a strong committee of men whose names afterward became historic in municipal reform. This committee devised a model charter and municipal home rule constitutional article, having, however, no hope that any city would ever adopt the charter verbatim. No city ever did, but no charter committee could entirely ignore the document, and it had a profound influence during the next two decades. Its main message was a plea for simplicity and for freedom from checks and balances and red tape. It called for an elective mayor with complete and undivided appointive power and a small council elected at large, much like the present new governments of Boston and Cleveland.

About 1910 the short ballot movement and the top wave of commission government came along, pushing the demand for simplicity still further. The league allowed its model charter to get out of print and studied the new idea with considerable, but not complete, approval. It did, however, instantly accept the commission manager plan when that appeared three years ago, and organized a new model charter committee in 1913, consisting of William Dudley Foulke, M. N. Baker, Richard S. Childs, John A. Fairlie, Mayo Fesler, A. R. Hatton, Herman G. James, A. Lawrence Lowell, William Bennett Munro, Robert Treat Paine, Delos F. Wilcox and Clinton Rogers Woodruff.

The committee has made several partial reports and has finally produced a complete charter and a home rule article for a state constitution, embodying what it believes to be the best current experience and theory.

The new model charter is a commission manager plan and calls for the election of a city council of variable size and methods of election. This council hires, from anywhere in the country, a city manager who is their sole agent, and the chief executive of the city, with appointive power over the rest of the city's administration, except the clerk, auditor and civil service commission, whom the council chooses.

The committee has drafted three alternative election methods; there is a model non-partisan primary election procedure; another providing for preferential ballot, and a third calling for proportional representation on the Hare plan. The initiative, referendum and recall are offered, as separable items, with the approval of a majority of the committee.

This model charter demonstrates how modern municipal government has caught up with the reformers. At least a dozen cities with the commission manager form, have charters that differ from the model only in minor details and much of the draftsmanship of the model has simply been discriminating work with shears and paste.

The old model charter was a lonesome pioneer. The new model charter merely falls in line abreast of Dayton, Springfield, Niagara Falls, Cadillac and Ashtabula. It marks the close of a period in municipal reform—a period of forging good tools for democracy to work with. So far as the tools are concerned, the reformers are now at the end of their inventiveness and can devote their entire attention to output, as Dayton, for instance, is already doing, with results that look most promising.

The new model charter is now in pamphlet form, obtainable from the league's office in Philadelphia. It will be re-issued as a volume in the National Municipal League Series, by D. Appleton & Co., with a complete set of chapters supporting its various provisions, prepared by the various members of the committee.

It is suggested that the board of trade and city council committees having this subject in hand procure copies of the model charter pamphlet, by writing the Philadelphia office of the league. Certainly it can do no harm to examine closely the suggestions of men of national reputations who have devoted twenty years to the study of municipal government.

Deserted Two Days After Wedding Says Mother of Twins

That Henry Gorder married her March 3, 1915, and deserted her two days later is the tale told by Mrs. Alma Gorder in a petition for divorce which has just been filed in the circuit court of Vernon county. Mrs. Gorder, mother of twins, lives near Viroqua.

The wedding took place in La Crosse, Mrs. Gorder's complaint recites. She declares that her husband is an alibed man of 28, and prays that the court give her freedom, custody of her children, and sufficient alimony to support them.

Marriage may be an eye-opener or an eye-blacker.

WILSON MAY TOUR COUNTRY AFTER HIS NOMINATION

WASHINGTON, June 1. — President Wilson spent considerable time discussing politics at the White house. Senator Kern, Indiana; Representative Doremus, Michigan; and Norman Haggood of the Woodrow Wilson Independent league were among those with whom he talked.

The president may make a campaign trip through the heart of the country following his nomination. Tentative engagements already have been made for an address in Kentucky and New Mexico and the president indicated to Representative Doremus he will speak if possible in Detroit, in July. For the most part, however, it is likely the president's campaign will be carried on from headquarters in Washington and Long Branch, N. J. How soon he will leave for Long Branch has not been determined.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Forgot Himself

"I was presented at a ball," said Jones, "to a young lady whose proportions were anything but meager. After the accustomed manner, I asked her to honor me with a dance. She replied with a desolate air:

"I am only free for the cotillion and I cannot pledge myself for that, because I am not certain whether my people will not be leaving before it comes off."

Jones thought we would seize the chance of a compliment and said: "Oh, how empty the room will seem when you have left it."

You should have seen the savage look that she gave poor Jones.

Caught With the Goods

A benevolent old gentleman was walking in the park when the sobs of a little girl attracted his attention.

In answer to his inquiries the child explained, between sobs, that she had lost a cent.

The benevolent old gentleman drew a penny from his pocket and, extending it, said, with a smile: "Stop crying, little girl; here's your penny."

The child, instead of thanking the old gentleman, regarded him with scornful eyes.

"Oh!" she exclaimed, "you wicked old man! You've had my penny all the time!"—Chicago Herald.

Had His Plate

Traveler—Here, landlord, what's the matter with your dog? I've driven him away a dozen times, but he always comes back and sits close to my chair, watching every mouthful I take. Do turn him out and let me have my dinner in peace.

Landlord—Ah, sir, my Carlo is such a knowing brute! I expect you've the plate he usually eats off of.

Colored Wisdom

A dandy was endeavoring to make clear to a friend just what constitutes oratory.

"I will elucidate," he said. "If you says black am white dat am foolish. But if you says black am white, an' bellers like a bull, an' pounds de table with both fists, dat am oratory!"—Chicago Herald.

In the Butcher Shop

Butcher—Come, John, be lively now; break the bones in Mr. Harvin's chops and put Mr. Smith's ribs in the basket for him.

John—All right, sir, just as soon as I have sawed off Mr. Murphy's leg."—Harvard Lampoon.

Very Handy

"What kind of work could you possibly do around my office?"

"I'm a kind of all-round handy man, mister. I kin hold a door open, light a match for ye, call a taxi, drop letters down the chute an' tell folks yer out when ye ain't."

Long Gone

"Her ideal is shattered."

"What happened to it?"

"She married it."

THE TRIBUNE'S DAILY TRAVELETTE

(By Nicksah)

SEATTLE

Climb one of the hills that rims Seattle's central district one of the hills where the fashionable residences stand, and you will be rewarded by a view that could exist nowhere on earth except in these United States of America. Before you lie the calm waters of the sound, and beyond the parallel stretches a chain of mountains, blue and white. At the foot of the mountain runs a belt of rich dark fir. It is picturesque to the point of being spectacular—water, wood and hill. And at your feet, fringing the shoreline is Seattle—a cluster of the tall parking-case bays hives with their countless rows of windows that are our modern skyscrapers.

Seattle has come up like a rocket—like the Pacific coast. Back in the '80's, President Hayes addressed the entire population and there was no crowding to hear him, because there were only about 500 people in town. Mr. Hayes spoke from a commanding hill. Today that hill is gone, along with a number of others which nature originally intended should figure in the landscape.

Seattle decided long ago, as times go on the Pacific coast, where you must be prepared to get lost in the town that raised you if you go away for five years—that she might well become a shipping center. The only detail to hinder was the fact that she was perched on a high volcanic ridge. So she started to dig herself away with steam shovels, but finally turned the trick was the hydraulic hose, which washed the high spots into the bay, where it made the flats into sites for longshore buildings.

If you are of a contemplative temperament there is no better amusement than sitting on a barrel on some Seattle wharf to whittle and watch the ships come in. It is a sort of meeting-place for tropic and arctic. The big boats hail from Australia and the south seas, from Hawaii, from China and Japan. They hail from Sitka and the ice-bound Aleutians. They spew up huge cargoes that are swallowed up in echoing warehouses. Then they slip under to the fresh-water harbor in Lake Washington, to let the barnacles drop off before heading out to all the seas of earth again.

An American Romance

"Hit from behind? Why she just saved you—saved all of you, your lives and fortunes—with the crack of that gun! And there's not a man of you could have crossed the swamp and done it! Not one!"

I glared at the three men, black and tattered as they were. The Texan watched me and his old serene smile came again. He moved nearer to the girl who was sitting up bewilderedly in the saw-grass and staring at the lurid sky-line. "Well, then—fo' that, I thank you. Just that."

She held her heavy hair back from her brow which must have been aching as badly as my own from the concussion of that dynamite.

"I did not desire you to die, m'ieu," she muttered slowly. "As for the rest I shall not answer. I answer nothing. I hate you again!"

"I beat you," he replied quietly. "I expaet I did—you little thing—as if matters weren't hard enough without fightin' you." He looked again with a mighty pride at his black squat machine. "But I can do that, too—personal and specified."

He went on back where Clell and Big Jim had gone to inspect what damage the twenty thousand dollar dredge might have incurred from the dynamite. I was left alone with Laure on the levee side in the unearthly glare of the far fires on the marsh and against the fringe of the dying forest. I became aware that she was weeping now, silently and alone, a prisoner on the Texan's line of earth.

"Please, please, child," I began. "It's not so bad as that—bad enough for tears."

"Yes, it is!" she cried, and sobbed again. "Look—look—my little gown! My Paris gown of the Comus ball. The Carnival King complimented me—he said it was pretty—my little gown!"

I had to let her cry it out.

CHAPTER XI
 The Hate of Men

At sunrise after a wretched few hours while the men dragged the swamped launch from the canal, bailed and righted it, and had begun to take an inventory of the damage done, I came upon Virgil silently looking at the corrugated iron roof of his dredge. A six-foot length of the stern post of the dynamite scow had hurtled down through the iron and smashed a steam-pipe on the boilers, and another piece of debris had neatly clipped a section of the rim from a gear wheel that operated his two-yard "clam-shell" bucket.

The boss looked at his watch thoughtfully. "Two weeks," he mused, "that's what the pawty cost me." He looked down the shining length of his canal, and then forward at the pathless waste of saw-grass and tidal pools yet to be traversed to save his option on the lands beyond Isle Bonne. "I'm going to beat it out from today and get the new fittin's in N'Awlyns. Two weeks gone out of our sixteen, Doctor Dick. Goin' to be close work."

He was silent again, calculating his precious time and resources, without thought of our bruises or his own. The far margins of the salt prairie were smoking yet, little wisps of brown trailing up through the hot morning stillness. The woods of the cheneire to the north showed no sign of life. I was minded to tell him of what I had discovered, the camp of the black renegades about the mysterious and then, somehow, Laure's mute white face as she sat under the awning of the launch withheld me. Her eyes had appealed to me, I knew; and I kept a treasonable silence.

She had spoken but once and that was when the others were on the dredge looking over the damage.

"Am I a prisoner here?" she said faintly. "What will he do? What does he think?"

"He thinks you tried to ruin him; he thinks you even would do it unfairly—and that is what hurts him horribly."

"Hurts him?" She started. "Why, that? Is it I who suffer?"

"You in would not deny that you were in this plot to burn him out."

"Ah, no—I did not know that there were men in danger!"

"But his machine—everything he has staked his work—his pledge and honor on—you were willing to wreck it."

"Ah, as to that, he and his machine have not regarded me—they have gone on brutally for a year, without waiting for the law, so sure he was of beating me."

"Yes—he is quite sure. And I—I am a director in his corporation, mademoiselle."

She was staring at me in fear. "I did not know that. Monsieur le Baron said: 'Ah, the doctor, he is a gentleman, a man of feeling and of sympathy. His heart is not with the mud-diggers!'"

"Ah, but my money is! And in this world, my dear," I sighed; I was sick of the affair. "Well, you had better not trifle with this man from Texas—in the end he will win."

She lifted herself higher on the seat to look at him upon his black leviathan: "He frightens me! That is why I—I—pretend!"

"To what?" I retorted, and she was pale and still. Then she went on subduedly: "You will not tell him what you saw last night. Listen, dear Doctor: It was absolutely necessary."

"Why I—I—pretend!"

"To what?" I retorted, and she was pale and still. Then she went on subduedly: "You will not tell him what you saw last night. Listen, dear Doctor: It was absolutely necessary."

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

Mollie King, star in "Fate's Boomerang," World picture which will be released the very last of this month, is only 18 years old, but that does not stand in the way of her success, for she has been on the stage since babyhood. She was only eight months old when a road company came to the little town where Mollie was giving her nightly concerts to private audiences, and they wanted a baby in the third act—one real, live, sure-enough baby who would blink its little eyes before the footlights and let out an occasional yell.

Mollie was chosen for the part, and ever since that night Mrs. King has always felt that some day Mollie would be a leading light on the stage. When still very young Miss King played an important child's part with Maxine Elliott in "Her Own Way." Then for half a dozen seasons she toured with popular companies, and was in vaudeville when World Film employed her to act on the screen. She made her film debut in "A Woman's Power," and so delighted were the World Film heads with her work that she was signed up on a three-year contract.

Anita Working on Newspaper Story

Anita Stewart, the Vitaphone star, is hard at work on a newspaper story in which she will play the title role.

In order to lend the finished artist's touch to her manner and dress she gained permission to visit a New York newspaper office, where she carefully noted the different actions of the women reporters. Anita is a firm believer in realism and will go to any end of trouble to obtain it in her work.

Comes frantic denial from Harold Lockwood and May Allison that they are married. They say they never contemplated such a thing and should they marry will not marry each other. They are the best friends in the world, however, and enjoy working together.

Miss Eva Tanguay, having refused all movie offers made her so far, now values her services in pictures at $10,000 a week, and says she won't sign except for three years, which, essary that he should not discover the wreck of that ship, and if his dredge went a mile beyond, they certainly would discover it before we—we are done."

"Why are you digging out your grand-uncle's old slaver—what has that to do with it all?"

"It is the baron," she murmured. "He is a man of ideas, but he laughs and will not tell me all."

"He is a proper lord for John-the-Fool," I said. "I don't believe Virgil would bother about his digging, if that was all."

"It is not all," she cried. And then, stared at her enemy who was coming along the embankment with his grimy engineer, Williams looked down upon her, small, resigned, trapped, but hostile; her eyes upon him now defiantly, as if challenging him to do his will; she would not beg a truce of him, or a favor, even so much as a glass of water in her deathly illness from the shock of his dynamite. It was Clell who ministered to her, brought her coffee after Mangy, our scared cook, had been retrieved from the marsh where he and the colored roustabout of the dredge had taken refuge. From the first Virgil had been absorbed in his machine; even now he dismissed her laconically.

"Take her around to Prosper's," he said to Big Jim; "say to the baron it was a fine pawty; thank you. Give him our compliments, and say that any one of his niggers who sticks his head out of the grass within four hundred yards of our ditch is a dead nigger. We work with side-arms after this."—Then he turned to Laure in her dragged gown that had seen the ball of Comus. "You see we're diggin' the ditch. We can't stop to go man-huntin' in the deep swamp—oth'wise we'd be some mean to you people. You go now—I know now what to expaet."

And his smile suddenly came, the old serene, self-assuring smile. "You see, I'm that kind of fello—I fight fair. When I win, then I'll come to you and tell you what it means to me."

He sent her away with a brief order to the engineer to return at once for the trip to the city seventy-five miles to the north. She went stonily, without appeal or evasion; he could think what he pleased of her. Clell and I watched the issue in silence. The white launch sped back through the blackened prairie; and the boss turned into his hot, steamy engine-room to nurse, with

VERSE and REVERSE

Little Feller

Oh! what are you thinkin', little feller,
 A-lookin' so solemn and wise?
 An' what are you seein', little feller,
 With wide an' wonderin' eyes?

Are you seein' lots farther, little feller,
 Than grown up people can see?
 An' are you lots wiser, little feller,
 Than grown ups can possibly be?

Are you thinkin' of heaven, little feller,
 An' sorrowin' 'cause you're away?
 Are you missin' the angels, little feller,
 Since they sent you down here to stay?

You must be rememb'rin', little feller,
 By the rapturous look in your eyes—
 The land that you came from, little feller,
 Far away beyond the blue skies.

You are tiny an' helpless, little feller,
 But it seems like your dear baby hands
 A-grippin' our heartstrings, little feller,
 Are stronger than forged steel bands.

Ah, little feller! little feller!
 Do you know we are lovin' you so,
 We most wish you never would grow
 Any older or bigger, little feller.

Suffs Give Chase
To the Politicians

CHICAGO, June 1.—Every available male politician in Chicago was chased around the hotels by a determined group of suffragettes, inaugurating the Congressional union's lobby to secure suffrage planks in the national platforms of the republicans and progressives.

Miss Elsie Hill of Connecticut, buttonholed Oscar King Davis, secretary of the progressive national committee, and secured his promise for a hearing before the progressive committee.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National Women's Suffrage association, arrived in Chicago and has taken charge of the fight: "Our organization is not trying to form a woman's party," said Mrs. Catt. "We are leaving that to the Congressional union. But we are going to ask for suffrage planks in all platforms."

Miss Maud Younger of San Francisco is slated to deliver the keynote speech at the Women's party convention, opening June 5, it was announced yesterday.

Arrangements were practically complete yesterday for suffrage parade on June 7. The commanders and marshals were drilled at Grant park this afternoon. Thirty-five thousand are expected to be in line at the pageant.

Cleveland Has $250,000
Worth of Weddings

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 1.—Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars will be spent on 1,000 June weddings in Cleveland, according to Frank Zizelman, marriage license clerk. Last year there were 932 June weddings here, but with an increase in the last twelve months of one thousand in the total number of marriages, Zizelman figures there will be at least 1,000 during the bridal month.

"The average wedding here costs $250," said Zizelman. "Some folk spend thousands on the ceremony, while there are others who just buy a license and give the minister a fee. But they'll average $250 each, counting florists', tailors', jewelers' and dressmakers' bills."

Deaths From Preventable Diseases. Statistics tell us that 650,000 lives are destroyed annually in the United States by diseases of the preventable class. The annual economic loss from this source is estimated at $1,500,000,000, or six times the amount of our fire loss.

Wants Clubwomen To Get The Postmasters
Away From Politics

NEW YORK, June 1.—An appeal to two million American clubwomen to help take the postoffice department out of politics was made by the civil service reform leader Richard Henry Dana of Boston, before yesterday's session of the Federated Women's clubs national convention. Dana declared the political appointment system has made the United States postal service the poorest and most inefficient in the world.

The remedy Dana suggested was to put every postal service job, from the four assistant postmaster-generalships down to the lowliest carrier of a rural route, on a competitive examination basis under strict civil service rules.

The speaker asserted that more than ninety per cent of all postmastercies paying $1,000 a year or more are changed with every national administration; and that appointees to the big assistant's jobs in Washington sometimes are changed twice in an administration. Dana condemned "the vast majority of postoffice appointees" as being "either politicians or broken-down failures in business whom some politician desires to foist upon the United States to support and who almost never know or learn anything about the intricacies of the postal service."

NORTH SIDE

SHADY AVENUE IS
OFFICIALS' PLAN FOR PLANK ROAD

Transformation of the causeway between the north and south sides from a paved dump to a beautiful avenue lined with shade trees is the plan of Park Superintendent John H. Forrer and City Engineer George Bradish, which inspired their appeal to the council Monday night. The two officials signed a communication asking that $400 or $500 be set aside this year as a fund for improving the causeway, and that $100 be added to the fund yearly for three or four years.

Planting of sugar-maples, basswood and elm trees along either bank of the causeway, removal of the brush, tin-cans and brickbats with which it is riddled, and sodding of the bank is planned by the two officials. A decade, the city engineer said this morning, will see the old "plank road" a beautifully parked drive roofed in with handsome trees.

CROP REPORT

A distinctly optimistic tone marks the state crop report of the weather bureau for the past week. Conditions were generally "ideal," the bureau declares, in the following summary:

"This week brought a decided change in weather conditions, being generally referred to as 'ideal' by correspondents in the southern part of the state. The temperature averaged considerably above normal and there was a good amount of sunshine. The rainfall was less than normal for the whole state but was rather unevenly distributed, being heaviest in the northern portion. In some localities there were heavy thunder storms with high winds and all doing considerable damage to crops but the total area thus affected was small. Two severe tornadoes occurred in La Crosse and Trempealeau counties on the 26th, tearing down some farm buildings but fortunately caused no loss of life.

"Farm work progressed rapidly in the southern portion of the state. In one of the southern counties corn planting was reported to be nearly completed. In the northern portion planting was delayed in many places by rain and in some localities corn is being sown to barley on account of the delay.

"All crops made rapid growth during the week and generally showed remarkable improvement in color and appearance. Pastures, meadows and small grains are reported to be in excellent condition. Corn and potatoes are coming up well except in the localities on low land where it was too wet for them. Fruit trees are in full bloom and in most cases look promising. Cranberry bogs are looking well and sugar beets are reported to be coming up satisfactorily. Garden truck shows decided improvement."

WORLD PUT TO IT FOR SUBSTITUTES FOR ITS TEXTILES

Chinese quarter in which it is prepared. American chemists have anticipated a silk shortage by inventing a synthetic substitute now filling a popular demand in the textile market. It is a collodion-like substance obtained from cotton or wood fibre and chemically treated so as to appear lustrous and at the same time withstand all the practical test of real silk. Fortunately, the chemical process does not require great quantities of hand labor which prohibits the introduction and growth of raw fabrics in the United States.

For example, it is possible to grow ramie grass in this country. The government has experimented with the plant in various sections and found it successful, and one man in Laurel, Maryland, has several acres of ramie flourishing vigorously. But you could not get an American to do for a thousand dollars what the average Chinaman does for a few cents a day in preparing the ramie by hand. First he cuts the stalk separately, strips off the leaves and then begins the laborious task of peeling the bark, usually with the Chinese thumb nail. After this he covers his thumb with a bamboo thimble and scrapes tediously away the gum and coloring matter, producing a long brown fibre known as Chinese grass. This is exported in large quantities to other countries, including the United States, where it is bleached and made up into ramie linen or ramie cloth. European textile manufacturers have made numerous attempts to set up machinery in the Orient for decorticating the stalks, all of which have been unsuccessful. In this country, also, it is estimated that there are at least a hundred and fifty patents on file in the patent office for preparing ramie by machinery, but they are all commercially impracticable.

Inferior Grade Sold
Ramie cloth while an ancient textile in the Orient, is almost a new fabric on the American market, where it is proving popular. Unfortunately, however, its reputation for durability is apt to be injured by reason of the fact that some of the goods sold as ramie is actually made from the ramie noils, a short by-product fibre of the same relation to ramie that spun silk is to silk. While made from the same plant tissue, the ramie noils do not wear so well.

Jute, which has largely taken the place of help in the manufacture of burlap, coarse materials, twines, ropes, etc., is an Indian product which has become scarce during the war. The present market prices for jute are just double what they were at the beginning of the war, an annoying factor to American manufacturers who yearly import over $7,000,000 worth of raw jute fibre. Hemp, which was formerly used in great quantities, is now little grown and almost an unknown product in the modern textile factory.

Russia is the greatest flax-grower, supplying four-fifths of the flax of the world. Austria-Hungary, France, Ireland, Belgium and Holland are also large producers of the raw-product, while France and Ireland compete in the possession of the greatest number of spindles. All manufacture of linen has been seriously hampered by the war, which has served to bottle up Russia's flax crop as completely as it did her wheat. While the best linens come from France and Ireland, these countries are also dependent on others for the majority of the raw product. Hence the price of linen is soaring. In the United States we have 2,000,000 acres planted in seed flax, but only 2,000 acres in fibre flax, the seed flax evidently proving more profitable.

May Use Pina Cloth
There are several tropical fabrics which may be drawn upon by American textile manufacturers in case market conditions are not bettered in the course of time. For instance, the Filipinos make an attractive fabric known as pina cloth out of pineapple fibre. The pineapple leaf, from four to six feet long, is laid out on a board and scraped with a piece of bone, until the pulp is removed and nothing remains but the fibre. The fibre is then placed in a bag of mortar and beaten vigorously with a pestle, after which it is washed and combed out and hung up on the wall to dry.

A Filipino woman, seated on the floor, ties the fibres together, end to end. This product is manufactured either in the Philippines or Japan into a light, gauzy dress goods especially adapted for tropical clothing and worn extensively by the Filipino women.

Abaca, another tropical product commonly known as Manila hemp, is a large plant somewhat resembling the banana tree which grows in regular forests twenty to thirty feet high. The fibre is found in the trunk and prepared in practically the same fashion as the pineapple fibre, then exported to Japan and the United States where it is braided into hats known in this country as hemp hats. Abaca braid is sold to manufacturers in this country at 30 cents per eighty yards not including the duty which is 15 per cent. The American woman of fashion often pays $15 for a hat made of this identical braid which cost the manufacturer a little over 30 cents. The abaca fibre is also woven into cloth rarely seen in this country.

May Be Many More
Many possibilities have occurred to American textile manufacturers as substitutes for various fabrics now commanding prohibitive prices and fast becoming scarce, but there is always the handicap of labor. For example, rumor has it that the Austrians are using nettles for bed linen; the Germans are reported to be using the fibre of a variety of willow rose as a substitute for jute; hops are being manufactured into dressgoods, and in the tropics the coconut fibre is employed in making shoes. South America is establishing experimental stations for the testing of various jungle fibres. Altogether with the aid of modern machinery, the seven modern fabrics may soon become realities of the past, and our future raiment may be made out of pineapples and coconuts.

to dry. A Filipino woman, seated on the floor, ties the fibres together, end to end. This product is manufactured either in the Philippines or Japan into a light, gauzy dress goods especially adapted for tropical clothing and worn extensively by the Filipino women.

Abaca, another tropical product commonly known as Manila hemp, is a large plant somewhat resembling the banana tree which grows in regular forests twenty to thirty feet high. The fibre is found in the trunk and prepared in practically the same fashion as the pineapple fibre, then exported to Japan and the United States where it is braided into hats known in this country as hemp hats. Abaca braid is sold to manufacturers in this country at 30 cents per eighty yards not including the duty which is 15 per cent. The American woman of fashion often pays $15 for a hat made of this identical braid which cost the manufacturer a little over 30 cents. The abaca fibre is also woven into cloth rarely seen in this country.

May Be Many More
Many possibilities have occurred to American textile manufacturers as substitutes for various fabrics now commanding prohibitive prices and fast becoming scarce, but there is always the handicap of labor. For example, rumor has it that the Austrians are using nettles for bed linen; the Germans are reported to be using the fibre of a variety of willow rose as a substitute for jute; hops are being manufactured into dressgoods, and in the tropics the coconut fibre is employed in making shoes. South America is establishing experimental stations for the testing of various jungle fibres. Altogether with the aid of modern machinery, the seven modern fabrics may soon become realities of the past, and our future raiment may be made out of pineapples and coconuts.

"Flivver" Spells Salvation For Long Of Normal

"Flivver" spells "Salvation" to Professor E. D. Long of the normal school, who set out for La Farge to deliver a commencement address. The normal prof got as far as Prairie du Chien in safety, and there started on a cross country trip for his would-be destination. The excessive mud was too much for the sturdy car, however, and a team was called to the rescue. Meanwhile the graduates of La Farge patiently awaited the message of Professor Long. The team succeeded in pulling the gasoline tank off the machine, thereby delaying the floundering orator still further. A "flivver" was finally secured and the journey continued—but not for La Farge. The students of that village are still awaiting the message of Mr. Long, as the machine took him at once by way of Prairie du Chien to La Crosse.

"Three wrappers preserve their delicious oven-crispness"

"The natural corn flavour is delicious!"

"They're known by the 'Bubbles'"

"Don't mush down in cream"

"Don't chaff or crumble in the package"

The first taste of New Post Toasties reveals the fact that something different — something better—has arrived for the breakfast table.

The secret is in the flavour—a self-developed flavour of pearly white Indian corn—not the flavour of cream and sugar upon which other flakes have to depend.

And notice, too, the appearance of New Post Toasties, particularly the tiny bubbles on the surface of each flake. These bubbles are a distinguishing feature—produced by the quick, intense heat of a new patented process of manufacture.

New Post Toasties do not "chaff" or crumble in the package, and they don't mush down in cream like other flakes. They're more substantial and are altogether more satisfactory than any flakes that have preceded them.

The proof is in the eating—have your grocer send you a package.

STREET PLANS HIT SNAGS IN SHAPE OF CITIZEN KICKS

Of All Work to Be Done
Only Three Blocks Get by Objection Day Without
Criticism by Residents

THEIR WANTS ARE VARIED

Those Who Were to Get
Brick Paving Want Macadam
and Vice Versa;
Some Don't Want Any

Street improvement plans for the city ran up against a snag, or rather a series of snags, yesterday, the official Objection Day for property holders. Of all the odds and ends of street improvement calendared for 1916, but three blocks were not opposed by property-owners. At the council meeting next Friday at least two petitions asking changes in the plans will be introduced.

The only three blocks concerning which there was no objection to the proposed plans were those on Third street between Mississippi and Jackson, which is to be bricked; on St. James street from Rose to Calcedonia, which is to be bricked; and on Ferry street from Thirteenth to West Avenue, which is to be asphalt macadamized.

Residents of West Avenue, which was scheduled to be asphalt macadamized from Market to Jackson streets, want brick paving. Residents of Main street, which was to be bricked-paved from Eighth to Eleventh street, want asphalt macadam. Residents of George street don't want any new paving. They informed the board of public works that the present paving is good enough with a little repairing.

BRITAIN TO SEND SHACKLETON AID

LONDON, June 1.—The British government probably will take immediate steps to send a relief expedition in search of the twenty-two men of the Shackleton expedition, stranded on Elephant Island, near the South Pole.

Lieut. Shackleton was asked by cable today to forward further details of the progress made by his expedition. His first message reported merely that his ship, the Endurance, was crushed in the ice floes and that the party left on Elephant Island was in dire need of rescue.

BAKER GIVES PARTY CLEAN HEALTH BILL

COLUMBUS, O., June 1.—Secretary of War Baker, in what was regarded as an indication of the trend of the democratic national platform, this afternoon gave his party a clean bill of health in past, present and prospective legislation and policies, in his keynote speech at the Ohio state convention.

A united democracy, backed by four years of accomplishment culminating in the successful submarine negotiations, and faced by a foe divided into three factions—the tariff men, the forces of "the great destroyer" and "peace at any price" men was viewed by Baker.

Baker emphasized the enactment of the federal reserve act and the rural credit bill. The unprecedented strength of national banks, the direct election of senators, the federal trade commission, already effected; and the prospective shipping and child labor laws were urged as democratic accomplishments.

Of Mexico, Baker said: "I cannot tell what the future may bring forth in this situation, but for my part I shall be most happy if the necessary security of our people can be obtained without the killing of another Mexican man, woman or child by American arms. And those who criticize the Mexican policy of the administration must be prepared to accept the alternative and say that their choice is to make war upon these people."

gotten out of the way June 7 and June 8, and nominations made on Friday, June 9.

It was generally believed today, however, that the progressive convention would choose one of these two alternatives:

Nominate Roosevelt at once and wait to see what the republicans would do.

"Stall" until the republican convention nominates a candidate, and, if he is satisfactory, nominate the same man; if he is not satisfactory, nominate Roosevelt with a third ticket in the race.

Perkins was expected to confer with leaders of the Roosevelt non-partisan league and with George L. von Meyer, director of the Roosevelt Republican association.

Announce Attack Repulsed
PARIS, June 1.—The complete repulse of a German attack on the eastern slopes of Dead Man's hill was announced by the war office today. The Germans bombarded all French positions in the Dead Man's hill region with the greatest violence throughout yesterday.

Intense artillery duels continued throughout last night on the east bank of the Meuse, but there were no other important infantry actions around Verdun.

French air squadrons early today dropped twenty shells on the Thionville and Audon stations and fifty shells on the supply depots at Azannes.

Bring Up 75,000 More Men

Since February 1,000,000 Germans have been in action at Verdun according to war office figures. Of this number it is estimated that about 300,000 have been killed or put out of action.

The preliminary meeting was to be held at the close of school today but the actual balloting will take place this evening.

TELEPHONE CHASE ENDS IN ARREST OF TWO AT VICTORY

Autoists Headed Off and Are Coming Back to Face Short-change Charge

Following a telephone chase by which Chief John B. Webber headed off a flying gray car, Detectives William Fitzsimmons and Joseph McGrath started out at 1 o'clock today with a John Doe warrant, to take over two men captured at Victory, alleged to be short change artists who have been working this vicinity for nearly a week.

Two men first appeared with the game at the Krueger road house on the State road last Friday. One bought a drink with a twenty dollar bill, and after receiving change for the drink and shoving the change back to get his twenty again. The bartender discovered, after the departure of the pair, that the change was $5 short. The same game was worked at the Soller road house, and again at the Chamberlain place on the North Salem road.

The men were in a big gray automobile. They disappeared mysteriously for several days, and then again came to light this morning on the Mormon Coulee road, where they attempted to work the game at Stephan's. Stephan notified the police, and Chief Webber began his telephone hunt.

At Stoddard the men had been through and had worked their game successfully on a hotel keeper. At Genoa they had entered a bank and got a new $20 bill to replace their much worn weapon. They were just disappearing out of Victory when the chief called. He then got into touch with De Soto and the marshal at that place organized a posse which lay in wait for the flying gray machine.

But the car never approached the ambush. It broke down somewhere between Victory and De Soto, and the occupants were arrested without struggle after a long wait warned the authorities that something had happened.

NOTED PILOT OF OLD RIVER DAYS SUDDENLY CALLED

tween St. Louis and St. Paul. He held one of the most comprehensive licenses of any master on the Mississippi, being qualified and authorized to handle vessels on all of the rivers and its tributaries.

Captain Moore was born in Missouri in 1859. Before he had reached his teens his father, a union soldier, was killed before Vicksburg, and his mother moved north, settling at Pepin, Wis. Here, as soon as his age would permit, Captain Moore entered the river service. He began as a mate and apprentice pilot on a little lumber steamer, and rapidly worked his way to the top of the craft. Before he was twenty he had a full master's license for the upper river, and was captain of a lumber steamer-boat. He was second pilot on the old Clyde, and later master of the Iowa, a larger vessel, in the early eighties.

Part Owner of Gardie Eastman
In 1887, Captain Moore took charge of the Evansville, owned by the Matt Clark Transportation company. The following year he was given the captain's berth on the Clyde of the Standard Lumber company. He bought an interest in the Gardie Eastman in 1899, a well-known lumber towboat owned by the Gardner, Bacheller and Wells company of Lyons, Iowa. Captain Moore remained as master of the Gardie Eastman for four years, disposing of his interest in her in 1903, when he became captain of the Lady Grace, owned by the Land Lumber company.

The Lady Grace was Captain Moore's last command on the river. He handled her for four years between St. Paul and St. Louis, but in 1907 he heard the call of Alaska, where the big gold strike had just been made. The captain was offered the command of the Susie, a big Yukon river packet, which he accepted and held for six years. At the end of that time he retired, returning to the Mississippi river and his home at Clinton, Iowa.

Manager for Cargill
A year later, in 1904, Captain Moore came to La Crosse as manager of the coal department of the W. W. Cargill company. This position he held until 1910, when the Cargill Coal company was organized. The Cargill interest in the business was purchased, and Captain Moore became the president of the new company.

Captain Moore is survived by one son, John D. Moore, and his widow, former Miss Helen M. Dobner of Lake City, Minn.

Captain Moore was a prominent Mason, having recently taken his thirty-second degree at the consistory in Milwaukee. He was a trustee of the First Presbyterian church and a member of several leading clubs.

His family will bring the body back to the city on the Southeastern at 5 o'clock this evening. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

PRINCE OF WALES TO MARRY ITALIAN PRINCESS JOLANDA

PARIS, June 1.—That Prince Edward of Wales, heir apparent to the British throne, is to marry Princess Jolanda, the oldest daughter of King Victor Emanuel of Italy and a girl of rare beauty, was the report received here today from Rome. It is rumored announcement of the engagement is imminent.

The 22-year-old Prince of Wales visited Rome a few weeks ago and then made a trip to the Italian front, where he was the guest of King Victor Emanuel.

The princess Jolanda celebrated her fifteenth birthday today.

AFTER SEEING JUDGE HE WILL TRY TO KEEP OFF TRAINS

George Monsoor, 16 years of age, just can't help "flipping" passenger train steps when he sees them rolling into the North La Crosse Milwaukee station. He was arrested a year ago and warned by North side police. The Fast Mail looked particularly enticing when it crossed Mill street this morning, and the boy jumped on one of the vestibules. A policeman saw him, and young Monsoor later promised Judge John Brindley that he would quit the practice. In addition to the promise he agreed to pay a fine of $7 and costs.

VAST INCREASE IN FIRST CLASS MAILS OF CITY

An enormous increase in the number of pieces of first class mail handled in the local postoffice last month over May, 1915, was shown today in the report of Postmaster O. R. Skaar. The report showed an increase of over 71,000. This does not include second and third class mail nor parcel post matter.

During May, 1915, 419,050 pieces of first class mail went through the local office, while last month 490,470 pieces were handled.

During the month of March, 1916, the record for first class mail handled here was broken. Pieces of mail handled numbered 674,789, an increase of fifty-nine percentum over March, 1915.

HITCHCOCK MAKES THINGS EASY FOR HUGHES OPPONENTS

Hughes' foes this afternoon. It was written to Hon. E. C. Stokes, at the Mechanics' National bank, at Trenton, N. J., and read as follows:

"My Dear Governor: Your letter of May 17 has been received. I think my statement covers the ground. It seems to me very clear that, as a member of the supreme court, I have no right to be a candidate, either openly or passively. I cannot remain working here and hold an equivocal position before the country. I must ask, therefore, that no steps be taken to bring my name before the convention."

"With cordial regards, I am
"Very sincerely yours,
"CHARLES E. HUGHES."

Dupont to Swing for Hughes?
It was rumored today that Coleman Dupont of Delaware would withdraw from the race in favor of Justice Hughes, swinging six Delaware delegates to the Hughes column.

Two new presidential headquarters were opened along candidates' row today. Paul Furman and H. J. Wasson, claiming thirty-seven out of the seventy-six Pennsylvania delegates, brought the boom for Governor Brumbaugh of Pennsylvania to the Congress hotel.

Headquarters for Senator Cummins, Iowa's favorite son candidate, were opened by C. A. Rawson, of Des Moines, Iowa, the Iowa state republican chairman.

The Sherman movement today was under personal direction of William B. McKinley, former chairman of the republican congressional committee, who arrived in Chicago today.

CAPT. SHUMAN HERE UPON BRIEF LEAVE REGIMENT IN SOUTH

Captain Brooks Shuman, Fourteenth United States infantry, which has been stationed at Fort Wright, Spokane, Washington, is in the city to spend a furlough with his mother and sisters, 1335 State street.

Captain Shuman had expected to go to Alaska this year to complete his foreign service, but probably as a result of the Mexican situation the voyage of the regiment to the far north was indefinitely postponed.

It was on May 5 that Captain Shuman was given his leave of absence and on the ninth, four days later, that two battalions of the Fourteenth were ordered to Douglas, Arizona. After his visit Captain Shuman expects to join his regiment somewhere on the border.

'Bo Leaps Out Of Trousers In Leaving Train

Jack Davis, vagrant, came down from Grand Crossing in the police auto wrapped in a lap robe in spite of the warm weather this morning. A hollow square of policemen escorted him into the police station, although he was not violent and there was no attempt at a rescue.

But there is really no mystery about it. Jack just tore his trousers off when he leaped from the head-end of train No. 47 at Grand Crossing. Something caught when Jack leaped, and Watchman Bill Burrows, horrified, took Jack in tow and called the wagon.

Davis is resting at the station in hope of a new pair.

GARRANZA TO BE TOLD U. S. MEANS NOTHING WRONG

Withdrawal Contingent on Mexican Ability to Take Over the Patrol of the Border

GAVIRA GOES TO SEE PERSHING

Carranza Commander to Repeat Request for Withdrawal of Americans Is El Paso Belief

BY CARL D. GROAT

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, June 1.—There will be no withdrawal of American troops from Mexico at Carranza's request. Instead, the administration will issue a statement probably within a week or ten days, informing Carranza of rejection of his request, and calling attention to mis-statements of fact about the Mexican situation, contained in his latest withdrawal demands.

In framing the statement officials will go on the theory that the general tenor of the note is fiercer than the actual convention text; that it is chiefly a document for home consumption. It will take issue with Carranza's claim that the Mexican government did not know that the American forces were crossing the boundary in pursuit of Villa until days after the hunt started.

The administration will endeavor to clear away misapprehensions which it believes Carranza entertains. And, anew, it will try to show him that its motives constitute no menace to Mexico. Withdrawal rests solely upon the ability of Carranza to take over the patrol work or the final dispersal of bandits by the Americans.

If Carranza would remain silent a few weeks and try to take over the patrol himself, some army men say, withdrawal could be attempted. As for Carranza's interpretation of the Scott-Oregon El Paso conference, General Scott declared today there was no agreement for withdrawal nor any that the Americans would not hunt down the Bouquillas raiders. On the other hand, Scott agreed to have the American line contracted, and this has been done.

On Carranza's protest against detention of munitions at the border this government probably will answer that the step is a precaution against the supplies falling into the hands of the Villistas.

Gavira to Press Point
EL PASO, Texas, June 1.—General Gavira, Carranza's commander in Northern Chihuahua, is believed to be carrying a copy of Carranza's note to Casas Grandes, where he will confer with General Pershing.

Regardless of Pershing's instructions not to discuss withdrawal of American troops, Gavira will make a formal request, in compliance with the terms of the note, it is understood here. This will be purely a diplomatic move, suggested by the Mexican foreign office.

Rumors of Mexican troop movements were circulated here today. Officials at Juarez would not confirm these reports and insisted that no significant developments have occurred since the Carranza note was handed to the state department.

Denies Agreement Reached
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 1.—General Funston today issued a statement regarding the recent Scott-Oregon conferences in El Paso and Juarez in which he declared no agreement ever was reached. The statement was designed to counteract possible Carranzista claims that terms were agreed upon, covering the conduct and withdrawal of the American expedition.

Conference Opens
COLONIA DUBLAN, Mexico, June 1.—The conference between Generals Pershing and Gavira opened today in the Mexican commander's private car, which is side-tracked on a neutral strip of ground midway between this camp and the Carranzista camp at Casas Grandes. Only Pershing, Gavira, their chiefs of staff and an interpreter were present.

Tickets for the class play are going well, about three hundred being sold up to last night, but there are still more than 500 good seats remaining in the house. The theater promises to be packed as reports from the various critics of the play indicate that it will be the best ever presented by a graduating class.

The program has been issued for summer school. About 300 will attend, eight teachers having four one hour periods beginning at 8.

The Commercial club has decided to hold a real outing. They will leave early Saturday for Trempealeau near which place they have a camping place reserved. They intend to remain until Sunday afternoon the girls being housed in a hotel, the boys in "pup" tents.

High School Haps

D., with Mr. Puckett, and Mr. Ernest, who had resigned previously, will go in his stead. Mr. Newaldt of Barron will take his classes. Several other teachers have been secured by the board, Miss Leisring taking Miss Kemper's place in the domestic science department, Norman Mitchell going into the manual training work and Miss Green taking Miss Constance's place in dramatics. Mr. Schaeffer of Green Isle and Walter Bell of the Springfield Training school are being considered for mathematic work and coaching, respectively.

Daddy's Bedtime

How Holland's Famous Boy Spent His Time.

Painted His Mother Over and Over.

"THE neat little country of Holland," daddy began, "has a wonderful coast that its brave people have won from a greedy sea. For hundreds of years they have forced the waves back, back and by their clever dikes held it there. So you must please imagine a low, flat country without our beautiful hills and valleys, always hanging in blue-gray mists that the sunlight has a wonderful way of making look greenish. Next to the dikes what you would notice first would be the windmills that grind the grain for the little Hollanders' bread."

"Tell us about the children, please, daddy?" asked Jack.

"I'll tell you about one famous Dutch child instead. He was the son of a miller, and from the time he was old enough to toddle away from his mother in his little wooden shoes that went 'clap-clap, clap-clap' every time he stepped, he spent his time in his father's dim old mill, lit by only one window, which threw a shaft of light upon a few objects and left the rest in deep shadow."

"Now, this seems like a very small thing, but you must please always remember what an important part it played in this rare child's fate. But before this fate really came to him he spent long hours walking across the gray-green Dutch meadows and studying the flowers and plants that grew in the parks near the old University of Leyden, close to his home. He loved the river Rhine and spent hours watching the ships come and go and the sunlight brighten on its waters. When it came time for him to go to college his parents wished to make a priest of him, but by this time the boy himself knew that he wanted to be an artist. This all happened 200 years ago, but this dreaming boy who loved to play in the dim old mill with its one sunbeam is still known all over the world as one of the masters of light and shadow."

"Who was he, daddy?" cried both children.

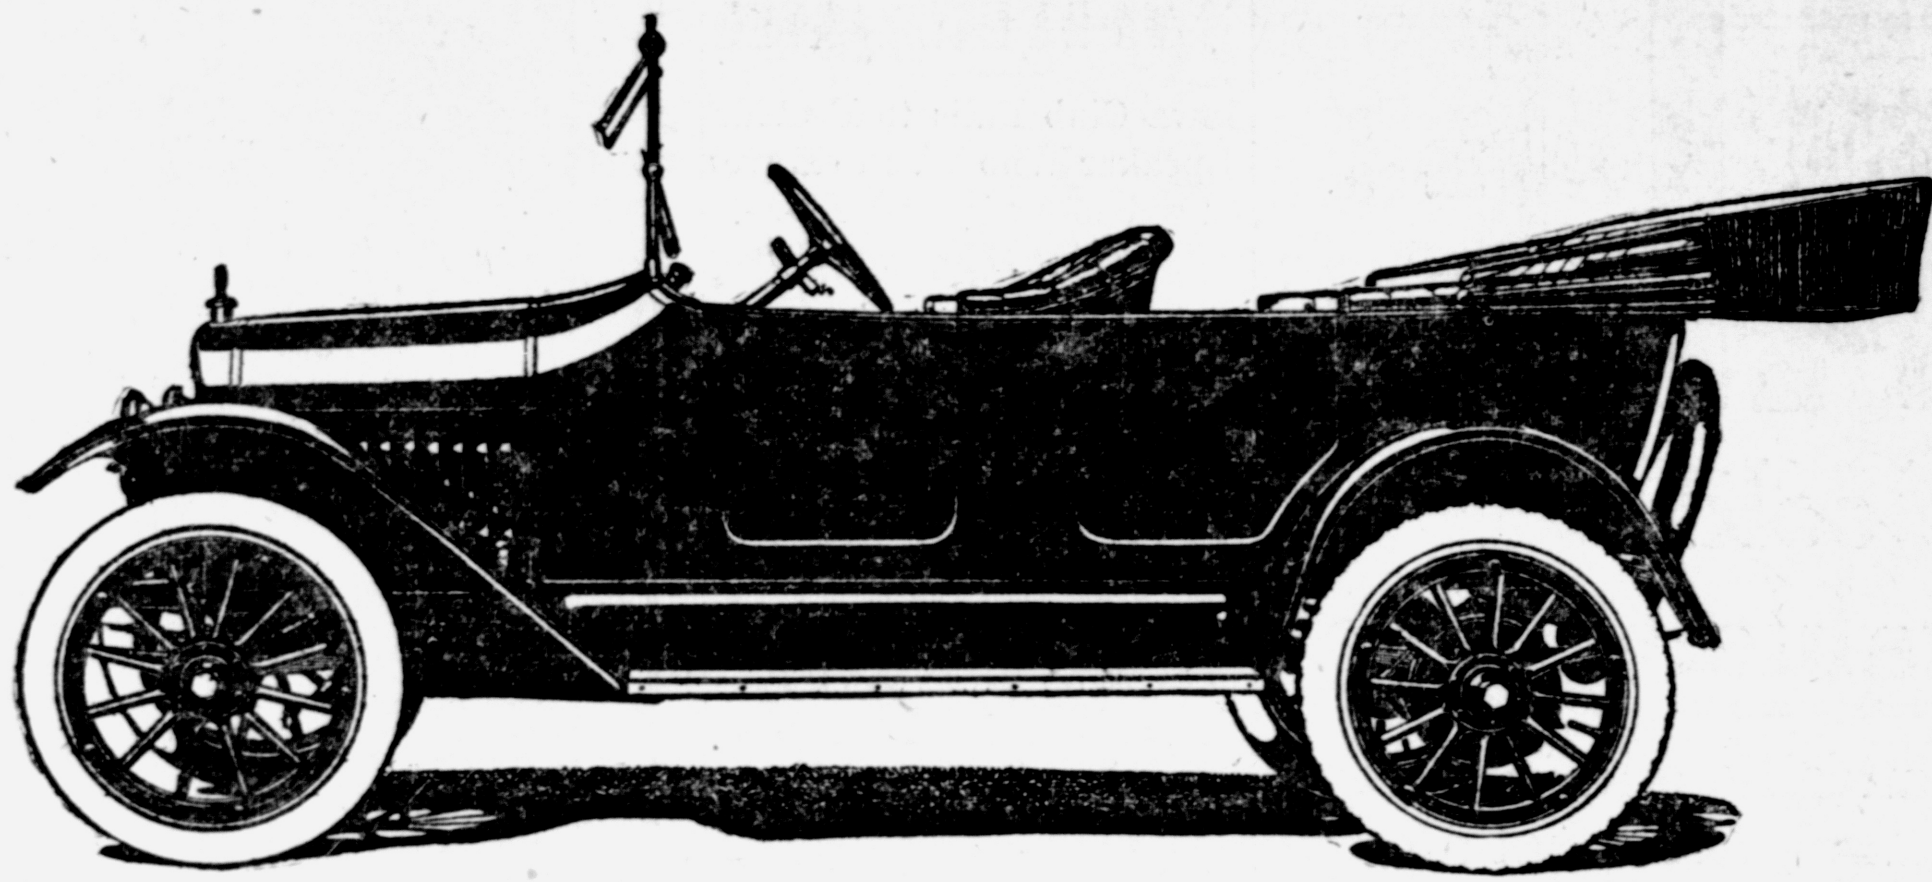

"He was Rembrandt van Rhy, which means Rembrandt of the Rhine. So he studied and worked hard, hoping always to be a great artist, and one of the first things he painted was his father's old mill. Over and over again he painted his mother, sitting so sweet and still with her Bible in her hand. What money he made selling his pictures he gave to her, and, moving up to Amsterdam, he passed all his long life making beautiful pictures of rooms with one light beam across shadows, his mother and the simple, quaint Dutch people that he never cared to travel far from. Some day, if you are both good children, I will take you to see a copy of his famous 'Night Watch.' The real one is in Amsterdam," daddy promised.

Impossible To Get So Much Motor Car Value For The Money

WE FIND this is the attitude of many people who come into our salesroom—before they know anything about the Maxwell.

Not until the Maxwell is shown and demonstrated to them—until they sit in it and examine the finish—until they ride in it—or perhaps not until they drive it themselves, do they realize what a tremendous value is offered in the Maxwell car.

It is not unusual that Maxwell value should not be known to everyone, because it is uncommon to find such a car for a good margin more than the Maxwell price.

The Maxwell stands absolutely alone in a highly competitive field, for the amount of value it offers for the price.

Appearance—The lines of the Maxwell are decidedly attractive. There is no break in the contour from the radiator to the back of the car. The fenders are gracefully shaped. All metal parts are enameled or nickel-plated. The upholstery is deep and well-finished. From any angle it is a car that the owner can be proud of.

Motor—The engine in the Maxwell car is not equalled by any other four-cylinder engine of its size. And we know of larger and more expensive cars that have less able power plants. The Maxwell engine carries its load through mud and sand or over the steepest grades without a falter.

Quality—The materials in the Maxwell car are the best that can be bought and the workmanship that turns them into finished parts is no less excellent. It is only the large production of the Maxwell factories that makes it possible to put such quality of materials and workmanship into a car selling at the Maxwell price.

Economy—With its other attractive features, the Maxwell is a most economical car to own. Owners get 22 to 25 miles per gallon of gasoline and 8,000 to 12,000 miles per set of tires. And the car is so durably built that repair expense is negligible.

We are sure you want a car such as we have described the Maxwell to be. If you will give us a few minutes of your time we are sure we can convince you that the Maxwell Car is an exceptional value. Come in today.

HUNGARIAN LEADER SAYS ALLIES MUST CHANGE ATTITUDE

Tisza Says U. S. Intervention Must Not Come Before All Are Prepared to Talk Peace

BY CARL W. ACKERMAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
BUDAPEST, via Amsterdam, June 1.—"So long as the responsible statesmen of England and France think as they speak, there is no chance of peace," declared Count Tisza, Hungarian prime minister and "strong man" of Austria-Hungary in an interview with the United Press. Count Tisza was referring to the recent belligerent utterances of Sir Edward Grey and President Poincaré.

"The intervention of the United States will only be useful when both sets of belligerents are prepared to talk peace seriously," he added. "I doubt if that time has arrived."

"The German chancellor's recent statements are proof of the central powers' readiness to end the war. Peace, however, depends on whether the leaders of the other camps are ready to tell the people the truth and take the responsibilities."

"It isn't our task to talk peace. We are fighting a defensive war and are compelled to continue for the purpose of obtaining necessary guarantees of future security. When the war began all the newspapers and the less responsible persons on the side of the allies spoke of annihilating us and distributing our lands. We never talked about what we were going to do, nor had we either the desire or any idea of dismembering other nations. Therefore, it is easy for us to make peace at any time."

Count Tisza was asked to comment on the practicability of President Wilson's suggestion of a world conference at the close of this war with the object of preventing future wars.

"That question is more easily put than answered," he replied. "I hope peace can be made lasting. It is the sacred duty of everyone working for a future peace to have in mind guarantees of permanency or at least of long duration."

"This war is the greatest calamity to the human race and to human industry. It is a thousand fold worse than the Napoleonic wars. It is horrible!"

OPERATORS' CASE WORRY SOME
NEW YORK, June 1.—That the situation growing out of the demands of the International Commercial Telegraphers' union of the telegraph companies is extremely serious was admitted yesterday by R. B. Mahany, federal mediator, after he had been in close touch with all parties. He is still hopeful.

This Is Honest City Where Your Baggage Is Safe

La Crosse is an honest community. This is the belief of Miss Anna Hanson, an employee of the Corcoran hotel, who forgot two suit cases in Hebbard's drug store a week ago. Tuesday she complained to the police that they were gone. Yesterday she got them back.

Yesterday E. Culver, stage-driver between La Crosse and Drexel, called the police over the telephone to inform them that he had taken two suit cases from Hebbard's by mistake for another pair that a relative had left there for him.

"Think," said the police, "of two suit cases standing unprotected in a public place for a week, and then only disappearing by mistake. This is indeed a paragon of a city."

REPORTED ATTACK ON ROOSEVELT BRANDED "FAKE"

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 1.—The Kansas City Star has branded the reported attack Tuesday on Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, in which a pocket knife was said to have been hurled at the colonel, as a fake, and a "plant" of news fakers.

The Star discredited the statements of Ernest Shell, who first told Secretary McGrath of the incident.

Child Takes Strychnine
While playing about her father's house Sunday morning Louise Foster, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nyram Foster of this city, swallowed a strychnine tablet, undoubtedly mistaking it for candy. Her mother, examining the box from which the tablet was taken, found it unlabeled and thinking they were tablets the grandfather had been taking for nervousness, felt no alarm.

Soon after the child asked to accompany the father on a short automobile ride about the city, and they had been out but a short time when she was taken violently ill. A doctor was called immediately, but before they could reach home she was taken with a convulsion. Two more followed in quick succession and for a time her life was despaired of, but at the present time she seems to be recovering nicely.

CHUM OF MARIAN MAKES APPEARANCE IN LAKE FOREST

COURT ROOM, WAUKEGAN, Ill., June 1.—Josephine Davis, chum of Marian Lambert and principal witness for the state against Will Orpet, returned to Lake Forest yesterday after a mysterious absence of several weeks. Her return yesterday was believed to indicate State's Attorney Dady's confidence that a jury to try Orpet would be complete in the afternoon and the trial under way by today.

Judge Charles H. Donnelly expressed hope yesterday of securing the final four permanent jurors speedily.

Counsel for Orpet today made an official denial of reports that Cyrus H. McCormick, multi-millionaire harvester manufacturer, is furnishing the funds for Orpet's defense. The defendant's father is horticulturist on the McCormick estate.

The ninth venire of talesmen was exhausted yesterday and court adjourned until deputy sheriffs, sent out to take men from their work in factories and stores, returned with enough to continue with the case.

NORMAL TRACK MEN HAVE LAST CHANCE TO GET A TITLE

School Beaten Out in Football and Basketball and Forensics but Will Make Effort on Cinders

OSHKOSH NORMAL NOT ENTERED

All Other Schools But Milwaukee Send Entries for State Meet at Normal Field Saturday

Nosed out in basket ball and foot ball and defeated in forensics as well, the La Crosse normal places its last chance for a state championship this year in the track team which meets the teams from all the other Wisconsin normal schools here on Saturday. And Coach Spith figures that with an even break of luck his chances are by no means slim despite the fact that Milwaukee boasts of an exceptionally strong team this year. It is expected that one of the largest crowds that has ever turned out to a track contest will be on hand to watch the activities this week.

The latest try-outs on the normal oval have been between the 440-men, the competition proving that Spith's relay team is most evenly balanced. Ryan did not run but the other four men, Grausnick, Renner, Gensmann and Braun were punched for the leading position. This has led to the decision that the relay team will not be changed. With Ryan in the game, it is most probable that the four man team will average about 55 or less as they were able to set this pace on the Stout clay track two weeks ago.

Oshkosh Not Coming
All the entries exclusive of those from Oshkosh and Milwaukee have been handed in to the local authorities. Inasmuch as all the money usually expended for athletics at the Oshkosh normal has been devoted to remodeling the building recently destroyed by fire, the eastern school will not be represented, according to a letter received by Dr. Spith today. It is understood that Oshkosh was reasonably strong, although not a bidder for first honors.

Although the entries from Milwaukee have not appeared as yet, there is little doubt but that the big city school will send in a full team of ten men to compete for first honors.

Superior Coming
Superior will be entered in the state meet this year for the first time as fire interfered with the northern school's entries last year and consequently no team went to Whitewater from Superior. The officials for Saturday's meet have already been announced. Ira Davenport of Dubuque will act in the capacity of referee and starter. The other officials will be Dan O'Brien and W. T. Gary of Winona, and from this city Keeler, Horn, Bradish, Kneewood, Mayo, Peart, Gouldin, Kline and Hedemann.

Following are the complete entries for the meet exclusive of those from Milwaukee:
(River Falls)—100 yards, Fessenbecker, Moherg, O. Eggebrecht; 220 yards, Fessenbecker, Moherg, O. Eggebrecht; 440 yards, O. Eggebrecht, Finn, 880 yards, Finn, Langdell; Bergland; mile, Finn, Langdell; Bergland; 120 yard hurdles, C. Eg-

LAVENDER WILD AND CUBS SPLIT WITH THE CARDS

CHICAGO, June 1.—The Cubs split another twin bill with the Cardinals Wednesday, the visitors taking the first game 5 to 1 and the home team the second 8 to 3. ## GETS SECOND NO-HIT GAME

SAGINAW, Mich., June 1.—Earl Brooks, pitcher for Saginaw, Arthur Hill high school, was credited with his second no-hit game of the year today as a result of his yesterday's performance against Saginaw Eastern. Brooks fanned a total of seventeen men.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Yesterday's Homers
Smith of the Cardinals, off Seaton of the Cubs.
Merkle of the Giants, off Bender of the Phillies.
Wheat of Brooklyn, off Barnes of Boston.
Daus of the Tigers, off Danforth of the White Sox.
Hoyer of the Athletics, off Cullop of the Yankees.
Gibboly of the Yankees, off Nabors of the Athletics.
High of the Yankees, off Wyckoff of the Athletics.

Joe Jackson of the White Sox, Heilman of the Tigers. Neale of the Cincy Reds, and Wambgrans of the Indians, each got four hits.
The Indians are back in first place with the Senators sharing honors with them.

Tris Speaker showed his teammates the way back. He led the way to victory over the Browns with three crashing bingles, a double, triple and single and then stole a base on top of all of that.

In the meantime the Red Sox were knocking the tar out of the Senators.

The tricky Tigers though out by the White Sox, outgassed the Chicago tribe and won, 7 to 4.

The Cubs and Cardinals split an even break at the Windy burg. Packard was sent in to relieve in both games, but only in the last game did the Cub hurler manage to fool the St. Louis bunch.

The Giants showed they're still got the stuff in 'em by starting another winning streak. By bumping the Phils, 4 to 2, they made it two straight.

Sixteen long drawn out innings were necessary before the Cincy Reds could down the Pirates. Toney and Miller went through the long game without assistance.

Maranville's boot in the ninth cost the Braves a ball game. The Dodgers won, 3 to 2.

Miss Canby was not a follower of beaten paths. That accounted for her establishment at the age of 40 in a profitable business as a contractor instead of being a public stenographer or milliner, or schoolteacher, as her friends had advised. One Monday morning, as she arrived at her office in her usual stunning tailored clothes, she found no stenographer at the desk where a competent but comely maiden had busied herself for the past year. Miss Canby felt a sickening sense of things gone awry as she saw on the desk a letter addressed to her. It was addressed in the stenographer's handwriting, and Miss Canby opened it hurriedly.

"When you read this I'll be far away on my honeymoon," was the first astounding statement, and there followed apologies for leaving her employer in the lurch. Miss Canby scowled and dropped limply into her swivel chair, but, thinking of important work requiring immediate attention she shrugged her shoulders and reached for the telephone to ask the typewriter agency to send her a good stenographer.

"Quick and capable, mind you," she concluded. "I must have one who is sure to have both those qualifications."

Half an hour later, a faint odor of sachet or toilet water or talcum caused Miss Canby to raise her head from a set of plans that had absorbed her mind. As she looked up her name was questioningly pronounced by a slim, saucy-eyed little girl of about 20, modishly dressed in a rose-colored linen gown, with a white sport hat and high white shoes. A white-gloved hand passed the typewriter agency's card of introduction to Miss Canby, who felt many misgivings about the applicant's capabilities. But her need of a stenographer was immediate and dire, so she rose and began to outline the service she required.

"My work can't be done with one eye on the machine and the other on a box of chocolates, Miss Elkins. It takes concentrated attention to avoid inaccuracy in the details, which mean days of work as well as dollars and cents for many other workers beside you and me." Miss Canby's curt business voice unconsciously softened as the big brown eyes of Bessie Elkins looked smilingly up at her.

"That will be lots nicer than writing 'Yours of the 10th received and contents noted.'" And Bessie smiled disarmingly up at Miss Canby and drew off her gloves preparatory to beginning work.

"We'll see if it proves as agreeable as you expect," said Miss Canby, as she looked carefully to see that the typewriter desk was fully equipped with materials.

After the first few days of Bessie's service, Miss Canby began to hope that she had found a treasure and after the first few weeks she began to fear that the treasure she had found was too good to last. Quickness and capability were but two of many qualifications of Bessie, and her cheerful, chirpy way of going after difficult work had brought many a smile into Miss Canby's usually serious gray eyes. As for Bessie, she admired Miss Canby's dignity and poise so much that she sometimes felt a fleeting desire to become permanently settled in the business world. Invariably, though, when Miss Canby would leave her alone to go on a long afternoon trip to some building site, Bessie would find herself with little to do and would turn through a book of bungalow plans, alluringly illustrated in colors, and would dream of some day sitting in a flowered gown on a bungalow porch while the dearest boy in the world came up the walk with a smile of loving greeting for her.

"What on earth has happened to you, Bessie Elkins?" asked Miss Canby one morning as Bessie appeared with hollow eyes in which no smile lurked and with colorless cheeks and a drooping mouth. "Are you ill?"

"No, but I wish I were," sobbed Bessie.

"Don't be silly; you wish nothing of the kind," said Miss Canby abruptly. "I suppose you've quarreled with your sweetheart, though?"

"Why, how do you know?" Bessie's surprise broke through her tears.

"How could any woman help knowing?" Miss Canby smiled. But cheer up. It will all blow over in a day or two.

"Not this time—it's a real quarrel," A flood of tears swept speech temporarily away, but, under Miss Canby's encouragement, the turbulence subsided and Bessie explained further. "You see, we'd been sparring over little things and just to be pert, I said: 'Oh, well, I've decided to be a big business woman like Miss Canby, anyhow.' If he hadn't acted such a goose, it would have ended there, but I'm ashamed to tell you what he said about you."

"Don't mind me—go on. I suppose he called me a hen or a cat."

"He called you a miserable old cat, and it made me so furious that I don't know what I said. He told me to go on and be a carpenter—which he pretended to think you were—since I'd made up my mind not to live the sort of life every woman ought to live. I told him he has the nerve to map out a program for every woman in the world, but he could understand he wasn't to map out any part of my program. So he went off in a huff and I haven't seen him since, but—"

"Here she sobbed, "but I happened to learn today that he has advertised the lot he'd bought for sale, the lot we were going to have a bungalow on."

Bessie's head went down on her crossed hands upon her desk. Miss Canby stood beside her and laid a hand on her shoulder. Then she drew a chair to Bessie's side and spoke quietly, but determinedly.

"This is serious, but it's going to stop before it gets more serious. If I had found out at your age that a career in business doesn't compensate for losing a woman's real career, I'd never have been here to supply the subject for your quarrel. I'm going to see your sweetheart and straighten out this tangle."

up your desk and be ready to talk to me when I telephone you."

Before Bessie could protest, Miss Canby had gone, and the rather dazed girl did not know whether to be glad or sorry that her quarrel had been taken in hand by her masterful employer. She moved about slowly, stopping often to stare at nothing. After she had bathed her face and powdered her nose she felt and looked better. When her desk was almost in order, the telephone rang.

"Put on your hat and meet me at Markham's in ten minutes," said Miss Canby's voice commandingly. It will do you good to get away for an hour or two. Not a word about Robert, which made Bessie feel both disappointed and relieved.

Markham's confectionery store was a favorite downtown rendezvous for women, and, just as Bessie entered it, Miss Canby emerged from a telephone booth in the entry.

"Come," she said, with mock formality, "my lady's carriage awaits her." Taking Bessie's arm she escorted her through the store and out through a side entrance opening on another street. At the curb a taxicab stood throbbing, and from the cab sprang Robert Davis, whose eyes pleaded eloquently as he held out his hand to Bessie. She extended her own hand timidly, and the next minute found herself in the cab, with Miss Canby speaking to her from the curb.

"You and Robert are going to look over that lot once more, and if I can dispose of some matters by telephone I'll follow." A moment later, with a sly smile, she added: "But for fear I shouldn't get out after all today, I want to say that the contractor's job on the bungalow for that lot is to be my wedding gift to you two bungalow lovers."

WOULD OPERATE AIRSHIP LINE

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Representative Emerson of Cleveland has introduced resolution permitting the Ralph T. Stansforth airship line to operate a line between Cleveland and Detroit for carrying passengers and freight.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics.

Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
